Over the past several years, one of the main priorities of the Mid-Atlantic – Russia Business Council has been Russian-American cooperation in renewable energy. MARBC will continue to help organize American and Russian participation in leading renewable energy events this year, including National Renewable Energy Policy Forum in Washington, D.C. on March 27-28, 2014 and Renewable Energy Finance Forum-Wall Street in New York on June 25-26, 2014.

REFF Wall Street, in the Grand Hyatt New York in New York on June 25-26, is the leading renewable energy financing event in the country. Organized jointly by American Council on Renewable Energy and Euromoney, the event will discuss the main challenges currently facing renewable energy and provide insight into future business opportunities in this sector. REFF Wall Street creates the opportunity to hear from those that are defying the existing industry challenges to create innovative financing solutions and offers you the chance to share your perspectives throughout the discussion on the direction of the market. Attendees of this event include CEOs and other senior company officials, lenders, investors, investment bankers, private equity investors, venture capitalists and other top transactional professionals in renewable energy finance. The meeting presents the chance to network with over 600 senior decision makers, financiers, and professionals in the renewable energy finance industry. As a supporting organization of REFF Wall Street, MARBC will offer a special 20% discount with registration code: SPT20MA. For additional information about REFF Wall Street, visit <http://www.reffwallstreet.com/>

The National Renewable Energy Policy Forum: “Evolving Policy to Keep Pace With Market Innovation,” organized by the American Council on Renewable Energy (ACORE), will begin with the Opening Reception on the evening of March 27 at the Columbus Club, Union Station, providing an excellent opportunity to network with high-ranking public and private sector officials in the fields of energy and policy who are concentrating on renewable and clean energy technologies. On March 28, the ACORE’s forum will be held in the Russell Senate Office Building in Washington, DC and will include discussions by renewable energy leaders and policymakers from across the country involving the present state of renewable energy policy and assessing the path forward for pro-growth, constructive and bipartisan renewable energy policy that will foster additional private sector investment and innovation. As a supporting organization of the National Renewable Energy Policy Forum, MARBC will offer a special 20% discount with registration code: SPT20MA. For additional information about the National Renewable Energy Policy Forum, visit www.acorepolicyforum.com.
